

Lee Fox, Project ECHO Board Chair

Introduction to Design Thinking
Guest Speaker

Lee has worked within the intersections of education, youth development, technology and philanthropy since 2010. Her subject-matter expertise earned her speaking engagements across the country, including a TEDx as well as a Cordes Fellowship. Prior to joining the Fox Family Foundation, Lee founded EdTech company, PeerSpring, designed to ignite youth potential through storytelling, portfolio development and skills-based learning.

Lee has served on multiple boards including New Roads School, Leonardo School (Chair), TechAmerica, and Project ECHO (Chair). She has also served as an Advisor to multiple start-ups including Kingsland University, World Crypto Con, and The Impact Token Project. Lee graduated with a dual degree from USC after living most of her life abroad. She has three children and a loving husband.
